

MY LLAMA DRAMA

This hilarious story will delight young readers as they learn to read through rhyme and repetition.

Written by Lisa Kalma and illustrated by Eduardo Paj

Synopsis

*But blow me down, I swear it's true -
The spotty llama said, "You want some stew?"*

Something strange is going on at the llama farm. The llamas seem to be talking! A talking herd of llamas - can that be?

A charming and humorous rhyming story about a quirky bunch of llamas just trying to be heard. The perfect beginning reader book, designed to entertain and enchant children while supporting them to learn to read through clever use of rhyme and repetition.

About the Author

Lisa Kalma lives with her husband, son and elderly cat in Canberra, Australia. A primary school teacher with a love for Dr Seuss and Roald Dahl, Lisa loves nothing better than writing stories for children of all ages that make them snort-laugh into their milk.

About the Illustrator

Eduardo Paj has built his artistic career around bringing words to life with his expressive drawings. He draws during the day while spending his free time hanging out with his children and eating seafood. With his gorgeous illustrations, Eduardo is indeed helping to bring learning to every child who picks up a book graced by his art.

Brindie Press ABN 76 918 370 385
www.lisakalma.com

Published May 2019
Brindie Press

978 0 6484896 0 3 (HB)
978 0 6484896 1 0 (PB)

28 pages
Colour illustrations
8.5" x 8.5" (21.6 cm x 21.6cm)

RRP: $24.99 (HB)
$16.99 (PB)

Early Childhood
Ages 3 - 8

Selling Points

- Lively, colourful and fun illustrations
- Written in engaging rhyme to support early readers
- Educational material at the back of the book
- Entertaining and funny

Ordering information

- Contact Lisa directly on 0140 547 250 or lisakalmawrites@gmail.com
- Visit lisakalma.com for more information.